model 42/43 customer assembled terminals

description, selection guide & prices

This document describes and specifies buffered model 42/43 components which lessors and resellers may individually order and subsequently assemble into the equivalent of certain Teletype Corporation manufactured terminals having assigned catalog numbers. These sets have the identical features and functions of the cataloged terminals.

The customer benefits by carrying only a minimum inventory and maximizing the probability of having a particular set available when it is needed.

COMPONENT DESCRIPTION

This offering utilizes three major components which are assembled into various combinations to produce the equivalent of cataloged sets:

1. Keyboard-Printers

When the specified feature group package and keytop set (if required) are added to the associated Keyboard-Printer Component, it becomes a functional terminal.

2. Feature Group Package

Consists of the following items:

- Features group circuit card
- Opcon label which denotes the function of the top row of keys
- Directory label for pullout tray

3. Keytop Modification Kit

If the selection guide indicates a keytop set is required, the keyboard of the specified keyboard-printer component must be modified.

These kits provide:

- The required keytops
- Keytop removal tool
- Teletype Corporation Specification 51049S

TERMINAL IDENTIFICATION

If the terminal has been customer converted from model 42 to 43 or vice versa, logo strips may be ordered separately to provide correct identification for the converted terminal:

model 42 logo—430907

model 43 logo—430906
